

Jan Brits

Abridged Curriculum Vitae

He has completed a 4 year National Diploma for Technicians (Electrical – Heavy Current); a Safety Management Training Course (SAMTRAC) Cum Laude; a Higher Diploma in Occupational Health and Safety Management (Accredited as a “M+4” qualification by the Human Sciences Research Council); a certificate course in the Occupational Health and Safety Act and Regulations (UNISA) as well as numerous other in-house training courses.

Employment –

- Worked as Chief Engineering Technician at Spoornet, a division of Transnet, for almost 30 years;
- As Consultant, for BCM (Business Contingency Management), implementing OHS Management systems, for approximately one year;
- As SHE Consultant / auditor for HASLAC (Health and Safety Legal Audit Consultants) for approximately six months; where after
- He was involved in the establishment of Joint Occupational Health and Safety Solutions;
- Prior to him joining LexisNexis in 2004, he has spent 2,5 years as Consultant; Legal Training with NOSA (National Occupational Safety Association) where his duties were very diverse in nature – including training, both legal and NOSA training courses, legal consultations and seminars as well as Legal Compliance Audits and audits in terms of the NOSA 5*, green and platinum star systems;
- In August 2008 he became an independent contractor and has been continued to deliver services in respect of occupational health and safety training, consulting and auditing for a wide range of clients, including, amongst others, Sasol, Eskom, Spoornet, Murray & Roberts, Stefanutti Stocks, Premier Foods, RCL Foods, etc.

Jan is co-author, with Johan Louw, of the LexisNexis publication, OHS-Act appointments and legal liabilities.